Taiwan launched MOE APEC Scholarship

The Ministry of Education in Taiwan is partnering with universities to offer the Ministry of Education (MOE) APEC scholarship to students of the member economies of APEC (Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation, APEC). It welcomes applicant who is a Ph.D. candidate or a postdoctoral research fellow affiliated with an Australian higher education provider.

The scholarship will help increase the mobility of students in the Asia-Pacific, and reach the APEC goal of one million university-level student exchanges annually by 2020. In support of the scholarship, the priority will be given to youth and women in research from the developing member economies of APEC.

High-achieving researchers from APEC economies will be supported to pursue research opportunities in partnership with Taiwan education and research institutions for a period of two to six months. Up to ten fellowships of up to NTD 25,000/ 40,000 monthly will be awarded each year to researcher at the forefront of their research discipline.

For better preparing Taiwan's higher education to engage internationally, Taiwan has also boosted its intake student mobility through a number of scholarship and internship opportunities:

- Chinese Taipei APEC Higher Education Scholarship Program
- Chinese Taipei MOFA APEC Fellowship
- TIGP Interdisciplinary Doctoral Programs in Chinese Taipei
- TEEP Internship in Chinese Taipei- Learning plus Adventure
- TIGP-IIP Pre-Doctoral Research Training Internships
