Myanmar Research Network

Myanmar Research Network – at a glance

We are a network of Myanmar and international academics and researchers at the University of Melbourne.

We partner with local and international NGOs, donors, thinktanks, governments and UN agencies in Myanmar and beyond.

Our network includes world class expertise in Myanmar federalism, human rights and democracy, humanitarian and development aid, peacebuilding, China-Myanmar politics, civil society, research ethics and public health.

We facilitate new connections between academics, governments and practitioners and impact policy decision making around aid and diplomacy.

Ways we can work together

- Partner on new research projects on critical issues in Myanmar
- Participate in tailored workshops and mentoring on research in Myanmar
- Join our online and on campus events
